

Search Web

What are you looking for Advanced SearchHome > All Categories > Home & Garden > Other - Home & Garden > Resolved Question

Simple-Sports-Trading-Profits.... Letter received?

I received a letter today about a website called Simple-Sports-Trading-Profits.com but when I go to the website I cannot log in.

The password on the letter is smudged so I cannot read it to access it. Is there anyway to trace where a letter came from if there is no address on it?

All it has on it are names (Pauline Wheeler-Reid, Tim Lowe and Tony Langley)

 Susan

1 month ago (2013-07-09 13:15:12 +0000) Report Abuse

Best Answer - Chosen by Asker

Hi Susan. I have had that happen to me too in the passed, although not on password but addresses when the royal mail have got the post wet. I would not worry about it.

Although..... I just did a spider check and there is something about it that website here:

<http://www.makemoneyforum.co.uk/sportsure-reviews-betfair-sports-trading.html>

Not sure if it helps, but that domain name is mentioned on that page, as my scanning software found it.

.

Hope it helps,

Source(s):

.

<http://www.makemoneyforum.co.uk/sportsure-reviews-betfair-sports-trading.html>

.

1 month ago (2013-07-09 13:21:24 +0000) Report Abuse

Asker's Rating: *****

Thank you, I will take a look at that website you gave. Looks like an in-depth discussion, which should help with my decision.

Thanks again.

 Brian

Other Answers (0)

No other answers.